00:39:21 Alex Mackenzie: Congrats to PavPub for the timely email links and reminders – not everyone does this well!

00:39:23 Kirsten Holt, Head of Pavilion ELT: The lack of filter can have hilarious events... but you're right Chris, a thick skin is needed at times!

00:39:44 Kirsten Holt, Head of Pavilion ELT: Thanks Alex for saying that!

00:41:44 Kirsten Holt, Head of Pavilion ELT: Awww sweet

00:46:09 Pavilion ELT - Ellie: Working with Emergent Language: <https://pavpub.com/pavilion-elt/teaching-english/working-with-emergent-language>

00:49:49 Jane O Davies: Yes! I've got a foursome from the same family: 2 YLs and 2 VYLs!

00:49:53 Kirsten Holt, Head of Pavilion ELT: Love how you can use emergent language even with YLs! Thanks Chris for demonstrating

00:50:01 Marinela Anderca: Yes, thank you.

00:50:06 Carolyn Scott: all of it. having to scrap a plan to go with the flow of their thoughts and feelings- reactions to playground events, world events etc

00:50:15 Jane O Davies: No, I do two different activities.

00:50:21 Patricia Barzotti: Yes really important to teach Language through context without them realising it, and I think that applies to adults too.

00:50:24 Jane O Davies: Alternating.

00:50:40 Jennifer Feenstra: A lot of what you're describing as YL student behaviour is quite similar to my foundation program university students. LOL!!

00:50:47 Kirsten Holt, Head of Pavilion ELT: Cool, thanks Chris!

00:50:57 Alena Siamashka: All of it, I really like the bit about emergent language.
Also, the routine when you shift from teaching adults to YLs

00:51:30 Jane O Davies: It work! The VYLs can't 'keep up' with the YLs.

00:51:35 Jane O Davies: It works.

00:51:35 Kirsten Holt, Head of Pavilion ELT: Carolyn says having to scrap a plan to go with the flow of their thoughts and feelings- reactions to playground events, world events etc

00:52:07 RODOULA RAIKOU: I loved the activity with sentences on board, Great!

00:52:43 Gehad Hosny Mohamed: I haven't taught any YL before. Honestly speaking, I feel it is something I might not be able to do due to all these features and characteristics I need to have. I think it's time to give it a shot. I really like to try going through this experience

00:55:07 Gehad Hosny Mohamed: Exactly. You nailed it!

00:55:36 Marinela Anderca: After becoming experienced to teaching YL, I found myself think AD lessons are boring.

00:56:36 Kirsten Holt, Head of Pavilion ELT: That's an interesting viewpoint Marinela - thanks for sharing. Is it because it's less spontaneous?

00:57:13 Gehad Hosny Mohamed: That explains why many adult learners enjoy playing games

00:57:28 Kirsten Holt, Head of Pavilion ELT: For sure Gehad

00:59:54 Jane O Davies: My CTEFLA (1991) 'informed' me never to use YL activities with adults. I broke this rule, as I continue to do judiciously, and my adults love it!

01:00:28 Gehad Hosny Mohamed: Agree with you Jane

01:00:29 Sónia Ferreirinha: That is magic for adults too!

01:00:38 Kirsten Holt, Head of Pavilion ELT: Brilliant Jane! Instincts work wonders, hey?

01:00:40 Sónia Ferreirinha: Hi.

01:00:53 Gehad Hosny Mohamed: Hi

01:05:16 Marina Kolokonte: That's really interesting and useful, thank you!

01:05:28 Gehad Hosny Mohamed: A very good way to keep them all engaged. Thanks

01:06:17 Patricia Barzotti: it's a really good way to get them listening actively to each other

01:08:12 Gehad Hosny Mohamed: it is the same idea as setting a communicative goal for activities

01:08:23 Chris Roland: teachingteenagersEnglish@gmail.com

01:08:39 Gehad Hosny Mohamed: Lucky them to have YOU!

01:08:45 Carolyn Scott: so sorry -staff meeting- will be catching up later
